Hamburg Conference for European and SE Works Councils

Hamburg, 29 - 30 January 2024

As every year since 2009, our two-day conference will once again take place at the Hotel Hafen Hamburg. The agenda includes current trends in the EWC landscape with practical examples.

You will be able to select one of the following short seminars for Tuesday:

- Option 1: Short seminar on methods of communication in European and SE Works Councils
- Option 2: Short seminar on case law in EWC and SE disputes

In-house Events

Individual dates on request

Many European works councils organise in-house training in conjunction with a plenary or select committee meeting. There are also in-house seminars that are held independently of the regular meetings and lasting several days up to a whole week. Such seminars are specifically tailored to meet the needs of the respective company.

Legal basis for attending the conference:

Members of European Works Councils from EU countries as well as the United Kingdom, Norway, Iceland and Liechtenstein can request central management for time-off work and to cover conference expenses under Article 10 (4) of EU Directive 2009/38/EC. In most cases the EWC agreement or the SE participation agreement explicitly provides for an entitlement to training. This usually also applies to delegates from Switzerland and other non-EU countries. Members of European works councils governed by German law may participate in accordance with Article 38 (1) of the German EWC Act. Members of SE works councils governed by German law may participate in accordance with section 31 of the SEBG. German works council members may participate in accordance with section 37 (6) of the Works Constitution Act.

Seminar topics

Montabaur, 2 - 5 April 2024

Basic knowledge of EWC and SE

- Introduction: the current EWC landscape
- The legal basis (EU Directive and national transposition laws)
- To whom do the legal minimum standards apply and to whom do they not?
- What can be expected from judicial proceedings?

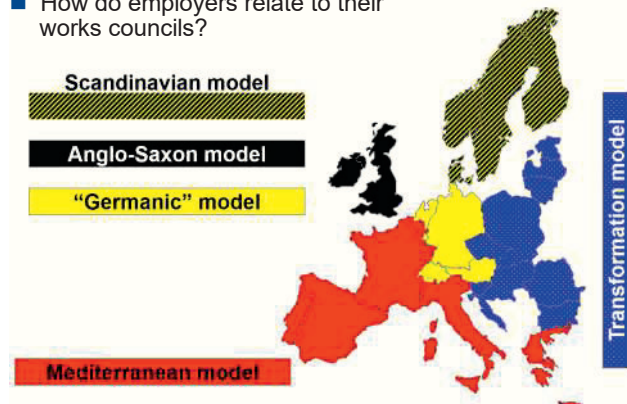

Communication methods and practical work

- How do European Works Councils organise their work?
- How can local works councils in individual countries be involved?
- Tasks and duties in transnational communication
- Rules for confidentiality

Industrial Relations in EU Countries

Should a works council in an international company wish to work together with employee representatives in other countries, alongside the language barriers there will also be intercultural communication problems lying in wait. A basic knowledge of the respective labour law and participation cultures is therefore important. This seminar module deals with the different systems of workplace representation (focused on France and Great Britain).

- What are the tasks of employee representatives in other countries?
- What models of workplace representation exist?
- How do works councils operate when they have no co-determination rights?
- How do employers relate to their works councils?

The core activity of the EWC: Information and Consultation

The blueprint for the EWC Directive is not based on German co-determination but on the French philosophy of information and consultation. French-style European Works Councils are consequently on familiar ground and make the most of their rights. They analyse all the company business figures with the support of consultants before rendering their opinion. What are non-French works councils able to learn from this?

- Definition and practicalities of information and consultation under the EU Directive
- The characteristics of an extensive consultation procedure "à la française"
- Working groups: Procedure for a restructuring based on a practical case study
- How can alternative scenarios be elaborated during consultation?
- Developing a reporting and warning system
